NOTES IN SEASON.

THE next issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will be the Fall Announcement Number and cover the next two weeks, ending September 24. Only a few houses have failed to respond to our request for information, and these will now note that, unless we hear from them by the 15th inst., their announcements must be held for a later issue. Intending advertisers also are reminded that their copy should reach us at once, otherwise they may find themselves left out of one of the most important issues of the year.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. announce a new story by Amélie Rives, to be called "Barbara Der- ing."

THE NATIONAL BOOK Co. have just published "Catmur's Cave," a novel by Richard Dowling, who is known as the author of several dramatic stories, chiefly of the detective order.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will issue at once in their Modern Language Series "Aus dem Leben eines Taugenichts," the notes to Eichendorf's little masterpiece being the work of Professor Carl Osthaus, of Indiana University.

THE HOVENDON Co. have just ready a new novel by "The Duchess," entitled "Nor Wife, Nor Maid," which will be welcomed by the admirers of this entertaining writer, whose last story, "The O'Connors of Ballinahinch," was recently issued by the same publishers.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will shortly publish a sketch of the "Life of Barbara Frietchie," written by Mrs. Caroline H. Dall, who has made a study of a character made historic by Whittier's ballad. The book will contain a portrait of Barbara, a view of the house in which she lived, and a plan of its site in Frederick, Md.

FRANCIS P. HARPER will publish shortly a new and important edition of Lewis and Clarke's "Expedition Over the Rocky Mountains," on which Dr. Elliott Coues has been engaged for some time. He is specially fitted for the task, and the index to this faithful reprint of the Philadelphia edition of 1814 will be of great scientific value.

RICHMOND, CROSCUP & Co., who have established themselves at 19 Union Square, New York City, will issue immediately a finely printed edition limited to 285 copies of "Germain's Marriage," translated from the French of George Sand. The book will be printed on Van Gelder hand-made paper and it will be illustrated with fourteen etchings by Rudaux.

MACMILLAN & Co., in view of the prevailing interest in the cholera, have reduced the price of Dr. Klein's well-known book, entitled "The Bacteria in Asiatic Cholera," to one dollar. This house also announces "A History of Early English Literature," by Rev. Stopford A. Brooke; and "The Beauties of Nature and the Wonders of the World," by Sir John Lubbock, which will be issued uniform with his standard work on "The Pleasures of Life."

D. APPLETON & Co. will shortly publish in their select Town and Country Library "In Old St. Stephen's," a sketch of the life of an old family in South Carolina during the early part of the century, by Miss Jeanie Drake, of Charleston. Generals Lafayette and Calhoun are among the characters introduced in this book, which presents a series of fresh and most interesting pictures of phases of life, customs, society and incidents in South Carolina.

HARPER & BROTHERS will soon publish an interesting work by Walter Besant, entitled "London," which will not be a history of the city as body politic, but the story of the life of the people at different periods from the earliest historical records to the times of the Georges, and will be fully illustrated. A number of Brander Matthews' magazine articles on literary and philological subjects will be issued uniform in style with the dainty volumes by Curtis, Howells, Warner, Higginson and Hutton, under the title of "Americanisms and Britishisms, with other essays on other isms."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Allen, Luman. Dane Walraven: a tale of old Boston. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., 1892. c. 3-318 p. 1 il. D. (Dearborn ser., no 66.) pap., 25 c.

Austen, Jane. Novels. In 10 v., [ed. by Reginald Brimley Johnson.] V. 3 and 4, Pride and prejudice. [N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892.] 2 v., 3+191; 2-210 p. il. S. cl., $2.

A neat and attractive edition. Each volume is adorned with three etchings. The page is narrow, with generous margins, uncut edges, top gilt.

Barrett, Frank. Out of the jaws of death. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 5+410 p. D. cl., $1.

Taras, a Nihilist Russian prince, is decoyed into the hands of enemies in London. He is rescued by a rough bar-maid, whom he afterwards takes under his protection. This girl sets herself to learn all things to be of use to Taras, and in his hour of need, when persecuted by spies and servants of the Czar, her native wit and fearless courage help him through many perils.

Bishop, Mrs. Emily M. Americanized Delsarte culture. Wash., D. C., published by the author, [Emily M. Bishop,] 1892. c. 3-202+6 p. sq. S. cl., $1. (Corr. price.)

Black, W. The maid of Killeena. [Also] The marriage of Moira Fergus. New [uniform] rev. ed. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 3+297 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Bowne, Borden P. The principles of ethics. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 15+309 p. O. cl., $1.75.

Designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles. While demonstrating the necessity of uniting the intuitive and the experience school of ethics in order to reach any working system, the author seeks to show that the aim of conduct is not abstract virtue, but fulness and richness of life. Author is Professor of Philosophy in Boston University.

Braeme, Charlotte M. ["Bertha M. Clay," pseud.] A golden heart: [a novel.] Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 3-255 p. D. (Dearborn ser., no 73.) pap., 25 c.

Edwards, J. T., D.D. The silva of Chautau, qua Lake. Buffalo, N. Y., H. H. Otis-1892. c. 5-79 p. il. obl. S. cl., $1.25. (Corr. price.)

Elton, C. The career of Columbus. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 3+380 p. map, D. cl., $1.25.

A careful study of all the known biographies of Columbus and a comparison of the value of their statements. The author is a Member of Parliament. He is said to have given many years to this book.

Foot, Katharine B. The roving of a restless boy. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 6+294 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A Boston boy of fifteen, impelled by restlessness and an idea that the kindly restraint enforced at home is a species of cruelty, runs away. He learns through a series of hardships in the West, adventures on many seas and an experience in the fore-castle, some of the unpleasant consequences that usually attend the run-away.

Frederick, J. M. H., comp. National party platforms of the United States, presidential candidates and electoral and popular votes. Akron, O., The Akron Print. and Pub. Co., 1892. 83 p. D. pap., 25 c.

An historical account of the various national party platforms of the people of the United States, with the text of all the separate platforms of all parties, from the Virginia Resolutions of 1798 to the Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and People's platform of 1892.

Gautier, Théophile. Four destinies; tr. [from the French] by Lucy Arrington. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 2+318 p. il. D. (International lib., no. 29.) hf. leath., $1.25; pap., 75 c.

The destinies of two couples married in St. Margaret's Church, London, on the same morning, become strangely involved. The characters which, to all outward appearance, had been created for each other's understanding, concentrate their feeling on their opposites, and after fantastic and extravagant adventures, finally reach mental peace. One of the husbands drifts to India and comes under the spell of occult powers. The author has a dream that in time there will be a science formulated which he, for lack of a better word, calls "the mathematics of chance."

Giberne, Agnes, comp. Beside the waters of comfort: thoughts from many minds. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] 3+389 p. sq. S. cl., $1.25.

This collection of extracts was begun simply to meet the author's own needs in time of sorrow. She has endeavored to show how remarkably "at one" are the views of very many belonging to widely divergent schools of thought in various churches regarding the future condition of the dead, and the true consolation for those left mourning.

Glouvet, Jules de, [pseud. for Guernay de Beaurepaire.] The woodman: a novel; from the French, by Mrs. J. Simpson, (née Senoir.) N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 11+222 p. por. D. cl., $1.

La Forestier, the title by which this novel is known in French, is a picture of rustic life, of the kind made popular by the later works of George Sand. It is regarded as the first attempt at reaction against the literary methods of Zola and his followers. It never preaches, but it teaches through the representation of noble deeds done by noble beings. The author is the distinguished Procureur-General of France, well known for his prominence and devotion to public duty during the recent trial of the Anarchist Ravachol, and in the case of General Boulanger a few years ago.

Grandgent, C. H. Materials for French composition. Pt. 5, Exercises based on Super's "French Reader," for pupils in their first year's study of French. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1892. c. 3+18 p. D. (Heath's modern language ser.) pap., 12 c.

A series of thirty-seven lessons, consisting of questions and answers founded on Dumas' La pipz de Jean Bart, contained in Super's "French Reader." The object is to teach children idiomatic French from the beginning. Prepared especially for Boston high schools. The author was formerly tutor of modern languages in Harvard University.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

Habberton, J. A lucky lover. Bost., Bradley & Woodruff, [1892.] c. 2+306 p. D. cl., $1.25.

This story, although abounding in characters, incidents and humor, is a close study of the average young man of good character and intuitions, during the period in which he imagines himself in love. The scenes are laid in New York and North Carolina, the heroine being Southern born.

Hardy, G. E., comp. Five hundred books for the young: a graded and annotated list. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 5+94 p. D. cl., net, 50 c.

The compiler is Principal of Grammar School 82, New York City. An introduction explains Mr. Hardy's ideas upon literature for young people, and offers a comparison between the books now devoured by undirected youthful readers and those of thirty or forty years ago. The books are grouped under seven general headings, and graded to correspond with the school readers. The annotations are brief and wholly descriptive. Only books now in the market are included in the list. Publisher and price are given to each book.

Jocelyn, Mrs. Rob. A big stake: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 3+312 p. D. (Lippincott's ser. of select novels, no. 137.) pap., 50 c.

Aline Warren, the young stepmother of the heroine, threw over the man she loved to marry a fortune. Upon her husband's death she finds his millions go to his daughter Valda, a beautiful girl of much character and amiability. The story tells of the several times when Aline's romances are endangered by her stepdaughter's unconscious rivalry. Underneath all the cold worldliness Valda finally realizes that her stepmother has a heart. English high life furnishes the incidents.

Lowell, Rev. Walter M. S. Against the tide; with introd. by G. C. Baldwin, D.D. Albany, N. Y., Leonard Pub. Co., 1892. c. 4+102 p. por. il. O. bds., $1.50.

The history of a young man left alone in the world who falls in with the Salvation Army, and is influenced to become a minister in 1890.

McAnally, D. R., jr. How men make love and get married. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1892. 5+263 p. 1 il. D. (Pastime ser., no. 85.) pap., 25 c.

The subject is humorously discussed under the following headings: Diagnosing a love case; The first attack; The agonies of love; Kisses and kissing; Vows of love; Letters of love; Songs of love; Curiosities of courtship; Advertising for a partner; Selecting a partner; The proposal in fact; The proposal in fiction; Healing a wounded heart.

Marvin, Rev. Abijah P. The life and times of Cotton Mather, D.D.; or, a Boston minister of two centuries ago, 1663-1728. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] c. 5+582 p. por. O. cl., $3.50.

Mr. Marvin devoted a number of the last years of his life to collating and sifting the material relating to Cotton Mather, rejecting all that is not based upon fairly good authority; his care in this respect was such that the reader may feel that in this volume he has the actual facts before him. Both sides of the matter are given, where a controversy exists, and the discussion that follows reveals the full bearing and strength or weakness of the pros and cons. The author has adopted the plan of a consecutive chronological biography.

Maryland. Court of appeals. Reports of cases; J. Shaaff Stockett, st. rep. V. 74, cont. cases in Jan., Apr. and Oct. terms, 1891. Balt., pr. by W. K. Boyle & Son, 1892. c. 23+685 p. O. shp., $5.

Mason, L. Bond, and Elliot, Norman. A survival of the fittest: a novel. Chic., The Nile Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 5+195 p. 1 il. D. (Niles ser., v. 2, no. 3.) pap., 50 c.

Catherine Shirley is left an orphan and penniless at eighteen. She is protected and enabled to become a painter by Mrs. Vanderslyce, a warm-hearted, irresponsible woman, addicted to drink and narcotics. Carried away by gratitude, Catherine shields this friend's good name after her death by accident. The consequences of this act are far-reaching. New York City and a Florida watering-place are the setting for a story of the frivolity and heartlessness of fashionable life.

Merrill, S. S. Law of mandamus. Chic., T. H. Flood & Co., 1892. c. 69+473 p. O. shp., $5.

Millet, F. D. The Danube, from the Black forest to the Black sea; il. by the author and Alfred Parsons. N. Y., Harper, 1893 [1892.] c. 11+327 p. por. D. cl., $2.50.

The party of three whose adventures are described consisted of the author, Alfred Parsons and the leader of the party, an expert canoeist. In the summer of 1890 they started in three canoes to make the journey of the Danube from the Black Forest to the Black Sea. They paddled and sailed 1775 miles through Germany, Austria, Hungary, Servia, Bulgaria, Roumania and Russia. The journey occupied eleven weeks and one day. The many strange scenes and strange people are interestingly described. The illustrations from drawings made during the voyage are very attractive.

Molesworth, Mrs. Maria Louise, ["Ennis Graham," pseud.] Leona. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 3+332 p. D. cl., $1.

A study in the temperaments, motives, hopes, trials and temptations of young girls. Leona, originally spoiled and selfish, coming under good influences, becomes a help in her home and an inspiring friend to her cousin Jack. The story is a warning against interference on the part of good, well-meaning women in the heart histories of their girl relatives.

Muir, Alan. Charming to her latest day: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 5+264 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 725.) pap., 50 c.

Whether it is Mrs. Barbara Temple or her daughter Sophia, who is "charming to her latest day," is left somewhat in doubt. Mrs. Temple is a rich widow with three unmarried girls when she is first introduced. She cleverly wins rich husbands for two of her girls, and is not without her own admirer, who proves unfaithful when he discovers that she is many years older than her looks indicate. Sophia marries late in life, and is the author of a number of rules teaching women "how to be beautiful forever."

National (The) political platforms. 1, Republican; 2, Democratic; 3, Prohibition; 4, People's party, and the Missouri state platforms, Republican and Democratic. St. Louis, Mo., Philip Roeder, [1892.] 36 p. T. pap., 10 c.

New York charities directory: a classified and descriptive directory to the charitable and beneficent societies and institutions of the city of New York. 5th ed. N. Y., published by the Charity Organization Soc. of the City of New York, 1892. 4-472 p. S. cl., $1.

New York. Court of appeals. Reports of cases from and including decisions of April 12 to decisions of Oct. 4, 1892, with notes, references and index; by H. E. Sickels, st. rep. V. 133. Alb., Ja. B. Lyon, 1892. c. 21+795 p. O. shp., $2.50.

Ogilvie, J. S., comp. Ogilvie's one hundred and ten new recitations and readings, no. 1. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, [1892.] 3-254 p. D. (Sunnyside ser., no. 60.) pap., 25 c.

Pacific reporter, v. 29; cont. all the decisions of the supreme courts of Cal., Kan., Ore., Col., Wash., Mont., Ariz., Nev., Id., Wyo., Utah, New Mex., Okl. and court of appeals of Col. Permanent ed., Mar. 17-June 23, 1892; with tables of Pacific cases in which rehearings have been denied; with tables of Pacific cases published in v. 92, Cal. reports; 47, Kan. reports; also, additional table for v. 92, Cal. reports. A table of statutes cited and construed is given in the index. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1892. c. 16+1257 p. O. (National reporter system, state ser.) shp., $3.50.

Payne, E. J. History of the new world called America. V. 1. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 30+605 p. O. cl., $3.

The writer is Fellow of University College, Oxford. In this volume the social economy of the advanced aborigines of the New World is traced to its physical conditions. The author's theory is that all advancement in civilization takes its origin in the organized provision of the food supply on an artificial as distinguished from a natural basis. Such organization necessitates defence, and communities having the two organizations elaborated extend their boundaries at the expense of others whose social arrangements are less advanced. Begins with a philosophical argument on the function of history, and throughout every fact of the history of the countries of South America, the West Indies and Mexico is traced to its scientific cause. Glossary of Spanish and aboriginal words and full table of contents.

Potwin, Mrs. H. K. What girls can do. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] c. 463 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A story which is chiefly of the efforts and issues of Clare and Dot Hamlin, children of wealthy parents of social standing, who are anxious to better the conditions of a wretched waif and a poorer schoolmate. The interest is mostly in their method of carrying out their self-imposed mission work.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s indexed pocket map of England and Wales. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1892.] c. 33 p. folded map, S. cl., $1.

Showing the counties, islands, lakes, mountains, rivers and railroads; with every post-office, railroad station or town carefully indexed, referring to the exact location where each may be found on the map.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s indexed pocket map of France. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1892.] c. 40 p. folded map, S. cl., $1.

Showing the departments, islands, lakes, mountains, rivers and railroads; with every post-office, railroad station or town, carefully indexed, referring to the exact location where each may be found on the map.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s indexed pocket map of Ireland. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1892.] c. 37 p. folded map, S. cl., $1.

Showing the provinces, counties, islands, lakes, mountains, rivers, towns and railroads; with every post-office, railroad station or town, carefully indexed, referring to the exact location where each may be found on the map.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s indexed pocket map of Scotland. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1892.] c. 30 p. folded map, S. cl., $1.

See note under Rand, McNally & Co.'s England.

Sabine, Julia A. At the end of the rainbow. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1892. c. 3-252 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Whenever Ruth Thornton spoke of her sister's proposed trip to America she alluded fancifully to her place of destination as being "at the end of the rainbow." The story tells how an English girl's expectations were fulfilled, and describes her surroundings in Colorado, with her impressions and the result of a social experiment.

Scaife, Walter B. America, its geographical history, 1492-1892: six lectures delivered to graduate students of the Johns Hopkins University; with a supplement, entitled "Was the Rio del Esperitu Santo of the Spanish geographers the Mississippi?" Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1892. c. 7+176 p. map, O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, extra, v. 13.) cl., $1.50.

Smith, Mrs. Eliz. T. [formerly L. T. Meade.] A ring of rubies. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 2+292 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Rosamund Lindley, an English girl, beseeches a wealthy but eccentric relative to aid her in a cherished project; he dismisses her with a promise of answering her definitely after a week, and within that time dies, bequeathing to Rosamund an antique ruby ring. This is the chief incident of a story in which the characters are of several social classes.

Smith, Mrs. F. I. Burge. Fan fan stories. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] 3-283 p. il. S. cl., 60 c.

Ten short stories, entitled Merry Christmas at Wickdale; Little Samuel's ministry; The white house on the hill; How much an apple was worth; What the little stockings saw; The queen among the grapes; The church mouse; Patter; The open hand; Grandmother's rule.

Snedeker, Florence Watters. A family canoe trip. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 3+137 p. il. T. (Harper's black and white ser.) cl., 50 c.

The story of a family's summer outing. The trip is mostly made in a canoe, which is sometimes towed by a canal, sometimes paddled by the occupants; at other times the canoe is carried by the canal-boat, or in a wagon over difficulties between stations. The ground covered is from New York to Glens Falls, and through Lake George and Lake Champlain to Millsborough Point. Many delightful days are spent in camp on shore, and some useful and valuable hints are given to others who wish to go and do likewise. The illustrations are made from photographs taken during the trip.

Snow, Freeman. Cabinet government in the United States. Phil., American Acad. of Political and Social Science, [1892.] 13 p. O. (Publications of The American Acad. of Political and Social Science, no. 60.) pap., 15 c.

A criticism of the article, "Congress and the Cabinet," which formed the number for November, 1891, of these publications. The writer thinks it wiser to run all the risks of the evils of popular government than to put too much power in the hands of the Executive Department.

A table of statutes cited and construed is given in the index. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1892. c. 12+1099 p. O. (National reporter system, state ser.) shp., $4.

Thomson, Mary S. Rhythmical gymnastics, vocal and physical. N. Y., Edgar S. Werner, 1892. c. 127 p. D. cl., net, $1.

This book is intended for the use of those in public life as well as of those in private life. It is a presentation of the most modern and advanced theories of vocal development. One of the special features of the book is a complete set of breathing exercises, comprising muscular development, rhythmical breathing accompanied by music, acting upon imagination and automatically imparting the sense of time to tone and movement. The vowel and consonant exercises impart automatically that nice muscular adjustment of the organs of phonation and articulation essential to the refined pronunciation of any language. Other features are the study of bird-notes with their musical scores, and the insistence on the use of stringed instruments for the special training of the ear so as to improve the quality of tone.

Tourgée, Albion W. A son of old Harry: a novel. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, 1892.

c. '91, '92. 4-438 p. il. D. (Choice ser., no. 68.) pap., 25 c.
See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 12, 1891, [1087.]

Vincent, Jacques. Tiomane: a girl of Berck (Vaillante-ce que femme veut); tr. [from the French] by Sara C. Tracy. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1892. c. 4-233 p. D. (Globe lib., v. 1, no. 173.) pap., 25 c.

The story of a little donkey-driver who saves the life of the daughter of the Consul-General of Smyrna. The child's mother is so grateful to "Tiomane" that she adopts her, educates her and introduces her to the gay life of Smyrna. When the Consul-General dies and his wife and children find themselves utterly ruined financially, "Tiomane" becomes their sole support, her beautiful voice enabling her to earn a handsome income.

Wendt, Edmund C., M.D., ed. Treatise on Asiatic cholera; ed. and prepared in association with Drs. J. C. Peters, Ely McClellan, J. B. Hamilton and G. M. Steinberg. N. Y., W. Wood & Co., [1892.] c. '85. 12+403 p. il. maps, O. cl., $3.
First published in 1865 in a series, as a subscription-book; now first given to the general trade. It includes all the modern theories and accepted facts concerning Asiatic cholera, including Prof. Koch's comma bacillus.

Winslow, Margaret E. Miss Malcolm's ten: a story for the King's Daughters. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] 4+325 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The purpose of this book is to illustrate various forms of spurious service to the king, and to point the way to the heart-life of which all acceptable service must be an outgrowth. The story deals with ten young girls of varying abilities, ambitions and social surroundings.

Yonge, Charlotte M. The Cross Roads; or, a choice in life: a story for young women and older girls; il. by J. F. Weedon. N. Y., T. Whittaker, [1892.] c. 243 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Tom Tolman and Emmeline Osbourne, upper servants, were betrothed lovers with no immediate prospects of marrying, until the death of Tom's uncle provided a means for them of realizing their hopes. Emmeline, however, questions the advisability of Tom attaining his purpose through the proprietorship of the Cross Roads, a public-house. Her decision and action conveys, besides its varied interest, a moral.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 10, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.—XIX.

THE ORDER DEPARTMENT.—V.

THE order-clerk should make it a rule to report to customers at the earliest possible moment why missing books cannot be furnished, and, if possible, when they may be expected. Neglect in this respect may result in unpleasantness and sometimes in the loss of a good customer. These reports need not necessarily be elaborate; the simple statement that the publishers are out of the book at present but that a new issue may be expected in a week, or that it must be sent for out of town and may be expected within a day or two; or, that it is out of print altogether, must be advertised for, and reports expected in a week or two, will ease the customer's mind, and let him feel that his interests are not neglected. The more prompt the order-clerk is in such matters, the better he will succeed and the happier will be his lot.

Above all, the order-clerk must be systematic in his work. He must have a place for everything and must be punctilious in seeing that everything is kept in its place. His checked-off bills must be in one place, his unchecked ones in another; his order-slips here, his billheads there, and his works of reference in the same place all the time. Should any one in the store have occasion to use the latter, he should insist firmly upon their being restored as soon as possible to the place from which they have been taken. This will at first cause a little extra work, and may possibly win for him the nickname of "old maid," but in the end it will save him no end of time and worry and greatly facilitate his work. Indeed, without such order and routine he would in a short time become utterly helpless and unfit for his place. When the books are delivered to his department the order-clerk should at once pick out those that are for stock and those that are to fill his orders. The former are to be carefully marked, and if firm labels are used, he should see that these are properly affixed to each volume by one of his assistants. Book advertisements and the latest hand lists issued by his firm should also be inserted in all books before they are allowed to go into stock.

The order-clerk, it seems hardly necessary to point out, should fill his orders with the greatest care. Let him make certain beyond a doubt that the books he is about to send out are the identical ones called for. He must be cautious and methodical in this matter, because a wrong book sent out means extra expense, and, worse still, a displeased, perhaps an exasperated customer. Especially must he make certain to charge every book sent out on orders at the time he despatches them. To trust to memory and do it later is apt to prove unsatisfactory, no matter how good his memory may be. Carelessness in this particular is dangerous not only because it is costly, but principally because it is apt to destroy confidence. Besides bad habits, if not corrected in time, are apt to grow and place a man in the predicament of the dog that worries sheep. The dog usually is buried. A man who cannot be relied on, no matter how honest he may be, may just as well be buried also.

Care must be taken in making out shipping directions. These can never be too explicit, and should be written out in a bold, clear hand, so that the shipping-clerk may readily understand what is expected of him. The order-clerk should compare his slip with his order before letting the books go out of his hands; the chances are that he may detect and be able to correct an error. But whether he does or does not discover an error, such a procedure is safe and tends to make the mind easy.

At the close of each day the order-clerk should go over his messengers' route-books, note the reports and, as previously indicated, transfer them to his order-book. The books he has been unable to obtain he must try for in other directions, though it will not be amiss to repeat an inquiry at the same house. It often happens that the second inquiry may be presented to another salesman at that house who may be better posted on the stock, or the person who was first approached may in the mean time have traced the book wanted. As a last resort he may write for information to such houses as he may think likely to be able to help him out. When called upon for a similar service let him answer the queries put to him as fully and promptly as possible. The public and lending libraries also should not be overlooked as possible sources of information, as they buy to read and not to sell, and many odd books find their way to their shelves. Indeed, it would not be a bad idea to try to make a personal friend of the librarian—the relationship might prove mutually serviceable.

Back orders should be looked up as often as time allows. Let the balance-book make the round of the salesmen with the request to give any information that they may be able. The hope of "finding a book on the order-clerk" may give them zest for the hunt.

Orders received by mail should undergo the same process as those received in the store. The order-clerk should insist that all mail orders turned over to his department be properly marked with directions for charging—that is, whether the goods are to be charged or sent C. O. D., or, in the case of parties out of town, whether a remittance is to be asked for in advance. Letters relating to such orders—as, in fact, everything relating to this department—should be carefully endorsed and filed so that they may be easily accessible. Long experience has taught us that what at the time appeared a most insignificant and worthless scrap of paper, proved, weeks or months after, the most important witness in a dispute over an alleged wrongly-filled order. Hence the need of warning in respect to the necessity of filing every scrap of paper relating to the order department, at least until there can no longer be any doubt as to the correct delivery of the order, i. e., when the account has been paid.

Finally, we would caution the order-clerk to keep cool under all circumstances. He must eliminate, as far as possible, all "temper" from his system, and study to maintain perfect self-control. Especially will it help him to learn to hear only what is necessary to carry on his work; uncomplimentary, aggravating or ill-natured remarks are better not heard at all than replied to, however cleverly this may be done. The man who is unable to subject himself to such discipline will find that his incumbency of the office of order-clerk will be about as disagreeable as it will be short.

THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL has ruled definitely that Printer's Ink, the lively little journal published by Rowell & Co., is not one of "the bona-fide papers of the land," and therefore he withholds second-class privilege from its publishers. We will leave it to the aggrieved parties (who are well able to take care of themselves) to dispute the justice of this decision, but consider it pertinent at this time to point out that if the Postmaster-General's ruling in this particular case is valid and defensible, then the publishers of a number of journals similar to Printer's Ink must prepare themselves for a like fate. Foremost among these may be named the publisher of Book News, a conspicuous uninterrupted advertisement of Philadelphia's mammoth bazaar. Its publisher may pretend that it is not one of those publications "owned or controlled by one or several individuals or business concerns and conducted as an auxiliary and essentially for the advancement of the main business or calling of those who control them," which, according to the Postmaster-General's ruling, should be excluded from second-class privileges; but then he might just as well pretend that the advertisements that help to defray its expenses are obtained upon its merits as an advertising medium and not as a consideration of patronage nor without a slight pressure of moral suasion. The Postmaster-General being a just man will recognize the axiom that sauce for the goose must be sauce for the gander.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF MISSOURI.

THE Booksellers' Association of Missouri, whose organization we noted in May last, met about fifty strong at the Commercial Club rooms, in Sedalia, Mo., on August 17, to adopt a constitution and by-laws and discuss plans to secure legislation that will protect their interests in the handling of school text-books. The constitution, as recommended by the committee, was adopted, as was also the following resolution:

Resolved, That the passage of the school text law by the Thirty-sixth General Assembly of Missouri, in so far as the same undertakes to fix the profits of the dealer in school-books, is neither just, businesslike nor American, and we characterize the law as an unwarranted and inexcusable attempt at State interference with the personal rights and privileges of the private citizen.

2. We declare the occupation of the bookseller to be as honorable as that of the lawyer, the doctor or the editor, and the law-making power of the State has no more right and no more reasons for interfering with the profits and destroying the business of the bookseller than it has to interfere with the business and control the profits of the clothier, the shoemaker, or that of any other citizen engaged lawfully in any business.

3. We charge that the school text-book commission obtained no reduction in price from the publishers, and that the contract prices on some of the adopted books is in excess of prices at which the same books are sold in other States, and we therefore condemn the action of the commission in contracting with certain publishing houses to supply the school text-books for the entire State for a period of five years at no reduction in price by the publishers, as a monopoly of gigantic proportions and one fraught with great danger to the public schools of the State.

4. We charge that the school text-book commission was either ignorant of the school-book business or purposely misrepresented the facts in the gratuitous explanation attached to their report.

We assert that the explanation was not required by law and is not sustained by the facts, in this, that the figures given as the former retail prices of the adopted books are in nearly every instance much higher than the prices charged by the regular booksellers of the State, and that by attaching a false statement to an official report a great injustice has been done the booksellers, and we therefore denounce the pretended explanation as false in figures and dishonest in purpose.

A discussion ensued, during which the slipshod manner in which the State Text-Book Commission entered into contracts with certain publishing houses was most vigorously denounced. It is generally claimed to have been careless and unbusinesslike, and charges are made that the Commission has been bribed. Of course such charges are more easily preferred than substantiated, and so the Missouri association acted wisely in not committing itself on the subject.

The officers of the association are: William McIlwrath, of Chillicothe, President; T. S. Kelly, of Moberly, Secretary; Chas. S. Dexter, of Sedalia, Treasurer. Eugene Parrish, of Nevada; Bert Pierce, of Springfield; A. H. Caffee, of Carthage; T. S. Kelly, of Moberly; William McIlwrath, of Chillicothe, and Graham, of St. Joseph, form the Executive Committee.

NEWSDEALERS' AND BOOKSELLERS' NATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

At the last meeting of the Executive Committee of the Newsdealers' and Booksellers Association, held at 438 Fourth Avenue, New York City, it was voted that the next meeting of the National Committee be held in the city of Philadelphia, on Tuesday, Oct. 11, 1892.

It was also voted "That the Chairman, Mr. C. B. Swift, be instructed to correspond with any trade organizations, or with individuals interested in our line of business, and endeavor to either send delegates or attend the coming convention," and that the Chairman use his judgment in inviting any prominent member of the trade to the deliberations at the next meeting of the convention.

ELECTRICAL LITERATURE.

From the Electrical World.

THE growing importance of electrical literature from the standpoint of the public is well shown by the recent publication by the Boston Public Library of a 24-page list of all the works on electricity, not including the telegraph and the telephone, to be found in that library. It contains not far from 1000 titles, and is on the whole an admirable piece of work. Coming from a library of such importance and high standing, this publication has considerable significance, as it indicates that the demand of the general reader for this class of literature is of such a nature that it is necessary to place at his disposal the very best means for ascertaining what the library possesses in this special field. With the single exception of the St. Louis Public Library this is, so far as we are aware, the first attempt to afford material assistance to the general reader in this important field of literature, to which accessions are now of almost daily occurrence. The periodical literature of electricity has already grown to be so voluminous that there is need of a special index to cover publications of this class in the English, German and French languages. As might be expected, the list of the Boston Public Library scarcely attempts to enter this field, the articles of the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society of London being almost the only ones which have been entered in the list. It often happens, however, that the greater part, and sometimes all of the information to be secured upon certain subjects is contained in the periodical literature of the day, and the reader who seeks the fullest and best information should be able to consult the original memoirs on the various subjects. Just here we would like to point out that in one important particular English electrical books of the present day are much more satisfactory than those of American writers; we refer to the admirable practice which English authors have of referring the reader to original memoirs and various other sources of information, to which reference may be made by the student who desires to pursue the subject farther than the necessarily limited space of a text-book permits the author to go in his treatment of it.

THE HISTORY OF BENJAMIN'S BOOKWORMS.

BY WILLIAM EVARTS BENJAMIN.

So much has been printed regarding the discovery of two living bookworms, and I have been mentioned so prominently in connection with the find, that the public may be interested in a contribution from me on the subject.

In the first place, the honor of making the discovery is due to Mr. H. Williams, the well-known dealer in magazines. In a box of old magazines shipped to him from the South he found the little old musty volume of "Seneca" which was doubtless put in for stuffing, "to fill up." Happening to notice the round holes in the edges of the book, and that one hole contained a brownish-black worm, he judged the circumstance curious and fetched the volume for my inspection. I was so greatly interested in his discovery that he volunteered to re-examine the box to endeavor to find more worms. He did find another brownish-black worm which exactly fitted the other hole in the book. Evidently it had been shaken from its domicile. A writer for the press, hearing from one of my assistants that live bookworms actually at their work of depredation in a book were most unusual, made note of the news in the New York Herald. With the keen and critical perspicuity in the matter of news which ever distinguishes the New York Sun, this lively newspaper seized upon the discovery, and expatiated upon it in a three-column illustrated article in a Sunday issue.

The Sun's article has attracted widespread attention, and Chicago and Philadelphia have put in claims of similar bookworm discoveries, but the accounts in each case state that the worms were imported. Heretofore it has always been believed and frequently stated that these pests were products only of countries across the sea, and that they were never found in this country. The importance and interest, then, of my bookworms depend upon the fact that they are natives indigenous to this country.

In this fact lies my claim to a discovery, and a tradition is disproved. The proof of my contention is submitted in the enclosed letter, which I am at liberty to print. It is written in answer to one written by Mr. Williams to Mr. Hiden at my suggestion.

FORK UNION, FLUVANNA COUNTY, VIRGINIA, }
August 28, 1892. }

H. Williams, Esq.

DEAR SIR: Yours of the 23d inst. is just to hand and I hasten to reply. The three old books that I sent you, "Seneca" included, formerly belonged to President Madison. He left them to his widow, who was formerly the Widow Todd. From her they passed to her son, Payne Todd. He became deeply involved in debt and his property was sold. My father bought these books among other property, trying to save something of what Todd owed him. My father was more of a politician than a literary man, and I have no doubt that he chose these books on account of their having been the property of Mr. Madison, who had been his near neighbor and personal friend. From the time he bought them they probably remained undisturbed in his library some twenty years or more, when they were moved to his new residence. And there they remained in possession of my mother some twenty years, till her death about three years ago, when I brought them from Orange to my home in this county, where they had been ever since till I sent them to you. Since I have had them I have repeatedly looked at them and showed them as curiosities to various friends, but we never observed the worms you speak of. My impression is that we examined only the title-page and perhaps turned over the first few leaves.

I packed these books in the box some two or three weeks before they were shipped to you and nailed them up.

Respectfully yours, P. B. HIDDEN.

The suggestion has been made that perhaps the worms were in the "Seneca" when President Madison imported the book, but the supposition will hardly hold when we consider that the book doubtless came into this country in the first quarter of the century, and Mr. Madison was a gentleman of the old school who carefully read his classics.

Within a few days after the worms came into my possession they shed their outer skins or husks and became white and soft; then they shrivelled, dried up and died. My theory is that the eggs—larvæ—were laid on the edges of the book, then developed by nature into worms, who for lack of other sustenance subsisted on the damp, mouldy pages of the "Seneca."

I am of the opinion that there is no such thing as a bookworm per se, but think that a few varieties of caterpillars in worm state can exist on the vegetable matter in old paper if accidentally placed in contiguous position.

OBITUARY.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

JOHN G. WHITTIER, the last of the great Abolitionists and the most national of American writers, died Wednesday, September 7, at Hampton Falls, N. H. His death was peaceful as his life, and he quietly fell asleep among his nearest friends and relatives. His body was taken to his home at Amesbury, Mass., and his funeral takes place on the 10th from the house on Friend Street, which for years has been the shrine of every visitor to Amesbury. He will rest with his relatives in the Friends' Cemetery. The "Quaker Poet" was born in Haverhill, Mass., December 17, 1807. He went to school at seven years of age and continued there until about sixteen. Early in life he developed an insatiable love of reading and knew by heart the twenty volumes of dry theological literature that constituted the library of his remote New England home. The Bible had the first place, and his early instruction in it has influenced all his verse. He has himself told with liveliness and humor of the coming of a peddler minstrel who sang the songs of Burns. They were a revelation to the impressionable boy. From this point his life as a poet began. During his two years at the Academy he had written a poem that had been accepted by The Free Press of Newburyport, of which William Lloyd Garrison was editor. Garrison came to look up the young farmer who had written this poem, and thus began the friendship which lasted through life and the untiring work in the cause of abolition.

All through his volumes may be seen traces of his part in the great contest. But his fame as a poet does not rest upon these anti-slavery lyrics; he did not profit by his connection with the cause of freedom; rather he sacrificed himself and his literary reputation that he might do something for the slave. His best work is seen in later poems which have no strain of controversy, which are founded upon ideal themes and treated in an ideal way. Although Whittier's poems have been read and learned and loved by two generations, the interest in Whittier as a man has been even stronger than in his verse. Since the Civil War Whittier has been living quietly and devoting his life to literature. During that time the events of his life have been few. The first volume of his poems in a form worthy of the contents was published in 1849 by B. B. Muzzey & Co. This was a handsome 8vo, with illustrations by Ham-matt Billings. After the death of Mr. Muzzey the publishing of Whittier's works passed into the hands of Ticknor & Fields and later of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. This firm published a final edition of his works, revised by Mr. Whittier in 1888. It is in seven volumes. Perhaps the most popular of Whittier's poems is "Snow-Bound," describing a phase of New England farm life which has almost wholly passed away.

The last published poem appeared in the current Atlantic Monthly, and was written on the occasion of Oliver Wendell Holmes' eighty-sixth birthday. On learning of Whittier's death Dr. Holmes said: "Mr. Whittier's was one of the sweetest natures—he was one of the sweetest singers we ever had or ever shall have." They had been friends since 1857. Whittier never was married.

HENRY HUDSON HOLLY, the author of "Holly's Country Seats" and "Holly's Church Architecture," died on the 4th inst., aged 55 years.

THOMAS WILLIAM PARSONS, the poet, died at Scituate, Mass., on the 3d inst., aged 72 years. Among his works are: "Ghetto de Rome" (1854), "The Magnolia" (1867), "The Old House at Sudbury" (1870), and "The Shadow of the Obelisk" (1872).

JOHN MACGREGOR, author of "A Thousand Miles in the Rob Roy," "The Rob Roy on the Baltic," "A Voyage Alone in the Rob Roy," and other works quite famous twenty-five years ago, has recently died at the age of sixty-seven. Mr. MacGregor was born in 1825, at Gravesend, England, and was a son of Gen. Sir Duncan MacGregor, K.C.B.

DR. JOHN J. REESE, the eminent toxicologist, died on the 4th inst., in Atlantic City, N. J., aged 73 years. Dr. Reese made important contributions to medical literature, his published works, including "Analysis of Physiology," "American Medical Formulary," "Manual of Toxicology," and a text-book of medical jurisprudence and toxicology. He also edited the seventh American edition of Taylor's "Medical Jurisprudence."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

GRANT ALLEN'S "The Scullywag" will be the serial with which the London Graphic will commence the new year.

PROFESSOR D. S. MARGOLIOUTH, of Oxford, has undertaken to translate the great Arabic geographical dictionary.

IT is vaguely hinted that Thomas Bailey Aldrich will succeed George William Curtis in Harper's "Easy Chair."

MRS. EVA MCGLOSSON, the author of the successful book, "Diana's Livery," and of "An Earthly Paragon," which has been running as a serial in Harper's Weekly, is a young Southern woman. She wrote "Diana's Livery" before she was twenty.

BARING-GOULD has been for some time engaged upon an exhaustive history of the Cæsars, a work which will contain a number of illustrations, including reproductions of medallion portraits and busts. It is understood that the title will be "The Tragedy of the Cæsars."

AUGUST BEBEL, the leader of the more temperate branch of the German Socialists, is about to publish a book entitled "History of German Social-Democracy." The last chapter of the work is said to contain strong attacks on the Anarchists and on the more radical branch of the German Socialists. Herr Bebel was formerly a weaver in Leipzig, the hotbed of German Socialism. He has been for years, however, a member of the Reichstag, and is a speaker of force and ability.

ALPHONSE DAUDET has been passing the summer at Champrosay and has worked regularly on his forthcoming book, which will be entitled "Soutien de Famille" (Support of the Family). The characters are the two sons of a wealthy manufacturer, one of whom, ruined by his mother's indulgence, turns out a scapegrace, while the other retrieves the family fortunes. Daudet will also soon publish a translation by himself of the work, written in the dialect of Provence, by a marvellous farmer's boy called "Baptiste Bonnet." This humble tiller of the soil seems to have been a mixture of Jean Jacques Rousseau, Robert Burns and Jules Janin. His "Mémoires d'un Valet de Ferme" are widely read in the south, and Daudet hopes to interest Parisians by giving them a version in their vernacular of the life and labors of the literary agriculturist of low degree.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS had been associated with Harper's Weekly almost since its beginning in 1857, and had written "The Editor's Easy Chair" in Harper's Magazine since 1853. The issue of Harper's Weekly for September 7 is, in a certain sense, a memorial number, and contains appropriate sketches of his life, character and services, with a portrait and other illustrations.

A NEW shilling magazine, to be published monthly, has just made its appearance in literary England, under the title of the Pagan Review. The editor remains anonymous and W. H. Brooks appears as assistant editor. The first number contains short vivid prose and verse representing the style and ideals of the French and Belgians. Apparently the young men who edit it wish by the word "pagan" to emphasize an absence of Christianity and a negative, not a positive trait.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING CO. have secured the American bookrights of W. Clark Russell's next four novels, which are already all placed for serial publication.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS are about to publish a new edition of Professor F. W. Taussig's "Tariff History," enlarged by about 100 papers of new matter, including a discussion of the McKinley Bill.

THE BANCROFT-WHITNEY CO., San Francisco, will issue at once "California Reports, Vol. 94," and a Student's Edition of "Hammond's Blackstone." Later in the month they will have ready "Mack's Digest of Vols. 1 to 24 of American State Reports."

THE AMERICAN CITIZEN COMPANY, of Boston, will publish about the 1st of October, "The Assassination of Lincoln," edited by Gen. T. M. Harris, a thick, illustrated volume, claiming to be written by the members of the commission that tried the conspirators.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY is about to publish a reprint of certain important "State Papers and Speeches on the Tariff," by Hamilton, Gallatin, Webster and other statesmen, with an introduction by Prof. F. W. Taussig. To insure as wide a sale as possible the volume, of some 400 pages, will be offered at $1.

EDWARD STERN & CO., Philadelphia, will publish at once "In Arctic Seas," by Dr. R. N. Keely, in which the author, who accompanied in the capacity of surgeon the West Greenland expedition last summer, gives a vivacious account of the incidents of the voyage of the Kite, conveying Lieutenant Peary's party to McCormick Bay.

DOUGLAS CAMPBELL'S book, "The Puritan in Holland, England and America," published by Harper & Brothers, which has attracted so much attention at home, has recently been the subject of flattering notice on the other side. A correspondent writing from the Hague, witnessing its growing popularity there, prophesies its early translation into the Dutch tongue.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in active preparation an edition of the "Works of Thomas Paine," which will be edited by Moncure D. Conway, author of "The Life of Thomas Paine," which they have just issued. The set will be in two or three volumes, the first division being devoted to the political and sociological writings, and the second to the religious and literary papers, of which the most important is "The Age of Reason." The volumes will be uniform with Mr. Conway's biography, and will include essays of importance not in any previous collection.

THE BERLIN PHOTOGRAPHIC CO. (14 East 23d Street) specially call attention to the fact that their reproductions of paintings issued after May 7, 1892, are protected by copyright according to the following ruling: Section 4965 provides as follows: "If any person after the recording of the description of any painting shall engrave, etch, work, copy, print, publish, sell or expose for sale any copy of such painting, copyrighted as aforesaid, he shall forfeit to the proprietor all the plates, on which the same shall be copied, and every sheet thereof, either copied or printed, and he shall further forfeit ten dollars for every copy of the same in his possession or by him sold or exposed for sale."

W. D. HOWELLS pays the following tribute to the late James R. Osgood in a letter to the trustees of the Fryeburg Academy, which has just celebrated its centennial: "The village was already interesting to me as the birthplace of my former publisher and long-time friend, James R. Osgood, who died so far from his early home the other day, and now lies in English earth. I cannot let the occasion pass without saying my say in recognition of the brilliant talents and uncommon qualities of this scholar of your academy whom I knew best. He was as generous as he was adventurous; he had a mind quick to conceive and prompt to execute; he carried into business the whole sympathies of a poet and the ardor of an idealist. A word from you sufficed for his swift intelligence; a word from him was a pledge which he felt bound to fulfil. If you have a moment in your joy for affectionate respect, I think you could not more fitly employ it than in recalling the name of this distinguished townsman of yours, and dedicating a sigh to his memory."

THE great English newspaper distributing and bookselling business of W. H. Smith & Son, in its growth and present status, is described by a writer in the August number of the English Illustrated Magazine.

THE first instalment of a selection from the unpublished papers of Dr. Norman Macleod will appear in the Scottish Pulpit about the middle of this month. The selection has been made by his cousin, the Rev. Dr. John Macleod, of Govan.

MARSHAL MACMAHON has decided to publish his memoirs at once, although he had not intended to give them to the public during his lifetime. The accounts of the defeat of the French army in 1870, as given by Zola in his "La Débâcle," have induced the veteran soldier to clear himself in the estimation of the world from the charge of incompetency tacitly conveyed by Zola's book.

HODDER & STOUGHTON, London, announce a series of volumes to be issued in connection with The Bookman. They will be entitled The Bookman's Library, and will consist partly of reprints, partly of original matter. The volumes will be handsomely printed and bound, and only five hundred copies of each will be issued. This will include the American as well as the English edition.

THE long-expected new edition of Sir William Smith's "Dictionary of the Bible" may be looked for towards the end of the year. The editor has had the co-operation of Professor J. M. Fuller, of King's College, editor of the "Student's Bible," and author of the commentary on Daniel in the "Speaker's Bible." Professor Driver, of Oxford, contributes the articles on the Hexateuch.

"THE oldest literary society in Europe, L'Académie des Jeux Floraux de Toulouse, has just announced the subject for the literary competition of 1893," says Mrs. Thomas A. Janvier in The Critic of August 27. "This society, founded in 1323 by seven burghers of Toulouse, has continued its sessions, with some interruptions, down to the present day. The subject proposed for next year's competition, to be written in French prose, is 'L'Eloge de Pièrre Goudelin,' the general scope of the article to be the comparison of the works of this once famous poet with those produced by the poets of the present Provençal Renaissance, the Felibres. The prize promised the successful competitor is a golden eglantine worth 450 francs."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

SOMETHING IMPORTANT.

NOW READY.

A New (Tenth) Edition, Author's Last Revision, OF THE Book on the Physician Himself,

AND

Things that Concern His Reputation and Success,

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

The author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books ever published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of the author is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of much of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to 350 Royal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

Bound in Extra Cloth, - - - - - $2.00 net.

EVERY DEALER SHOULD ORDER A SUPPLY OF THIS FAMOUS BOOK AT ONCE.

READY EARLY IN OCTOBER.

The New Pocket Medical Dictionary.

Compiled from the latest authorities, and containing words recently introduced into medicine; also Addenda of Abbreviations, Affixes, List of Diseases known by proper names, List of Poisons and their Antidotes, etc., etc.

By DAVID BRADEN KYLE, M.D.,

Assistant Demonstrator of Pathology and Instructor in Clinical Microscopy at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Visiting Physician to Philadelphia Home for Incurables; Associate Editor of the "Annual of the Universal Medical Sciences."

This compact and complete little dictionary will be a thing of beauty as well as of use. It will be neatly printed on extra thin, but opaque and durable paper, with red marginal lines on every page, thus bringing out the type clear and distinct. In strong, flexible leather binding. Size, $2\frac{5}{8}$ x $5\frac{1}{4}$ inches, easily fitting in the vest-pocket.

Price, - - - - - 75 cents net.

JUST READY:

The American Catalogue

The new volume of the American Catalogue covers the period July 1, 1884, to June 30, 1890. It is in two parts, of which the first contains the author-and-title alphabet, and the second the subject alphabet, List of Government Publications, Publications of Societies, Books in Series, etc.

Price, $12.50 in sheets; and $15 in half morocco binding.

The edition is 1250 copies only, and there will be no re-issue.

. . . "There is scarcely a bookseller in the country who would hesitate a moment to expend twenty-five dollars in advertising his stock; ought he to hesitate a moment about an expenditure that would enable him to sell hundreds of dollars' worth of books in a year? Such an investment would also purchase for him a reputation among his customers for intelligence and trade knowledge that would pay him five times over."—A. D. F. RANDOLPH.

This work is indispensable to the bookstore or library.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE,

28 ELM STREET (NEAR DUANE), N. Y.

Dr. J. G. HOLLAND'S TWO POEMS.

BITTER SWEET and KATHRINA. Cameo Edition. Each with an etched frontispiece. 16mo, gilt top, $1.25; half calf, $2.75; half levant, $3.50.

In this series there have already appeared Mr. Mitchell's "Reveries of a Bachelor" and "Dream Life," Mr. Cable's "Old Creole Days," and Mr. Page's "In Ole Virginia." The publishers have now ready Mr. Holland's two most noted poems, and they believe that these popular works, in their new and attractive dress, will appeal to a still larger circle of readers.

South Sea Idyls.

By Prof. CHARLES WARREN STODDARD. Revised Edition from new plates. 12mo, $1.50.

In an Introductory Note, Mr. Howells characterizes these sketches as "the lightest, sweetest, wildest, freshest things that ever were written about the life of that summer ocean. One does these things but once if he ever does them, but you have done them once for all."

The End of a Rainbow.

By ROSSITER JOHNSON. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

The hero of this book for young readers fails to find the crock of gold at the end of the rainbow, but does find the solid gold of priceless experience. His search leads him and his companions into many curious adventures and into a wider knowledge of the world and its workers.

AMONG THE LAWMAKERS.

By EDMUND ALTON. Illustrated. New and cheaper edition. Square 8vo, $1.50.

The bright narrative of one who for four years was a page in the Senate Chamber at Washington. He describes many stirring scenes and famous men and explains clearly the methods of Congressional procedure.

"The reader, old or young, who begins the book will be certain to read it through."—Boston Journal.

Publish September 10th:

The Mammon of Unrighteousness.

By HJALMAR HJORTH BOYSEN, author of "Gunnar," "The Light of Her Countenance," etc. 12mo, paper, 50 cents. Also in 12mo, cloth ornamental, $1.25.

"A fiction which has few equals for truth and fulness among American novels."—William Dean Howells.

"The characters are all strongly drawn, with that force and individuality which form a marked feature of all Professor Boyesen's creations, or rather, studies from life."—Boston Transcript.

The Other House.

By KATE JORDAN. Illustrated. 8vo, cloth ornamental, $1.25.

"The Other House," purports to be a study of human nature, and such it clearly is. The sadness, the heroism, the despair of unsatisfied ambition, and the cruelty of circumstances that are so artistically mingled in this little story, enter into the lives of people all about us. There is nothing forced or exaggerated in the book from the emotional standpoint, and in novels of this character such a statement means much.

A Romance of Two Worlds.

By MARIE CORELLI, author of "Wormwood," "The Soul of Lilith," etc. 12mo, cloth, Italian arabesque, $1.00 paper, 50 cents.

In "A Romance of Two Worlds," the field of occultism is invaded by the delightful author, and it is with difficulty that one prevents the belief that actual experiences are being related. It would seem from the text that there are those who have received the gift of peering into the mysteries of the future and depicting its events as graphically as does the historian the events of the past.

The Little Manx Nation.

By HALL CAINE, author of "The Scapegoat," "The Bondman," etc. Square 12mo, paper, 25 cents; also in 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

"In Hall Caine's 'The Little Manx Nation' we have a story of the kings, the bishops and the people of the Isle of Man, told by a Manxman lovingly. It is a most interesting and valuable contribution to literature."—The Dial.

JUST ISSUED.

Army Tales.

Containing: Bootle's Baby, A Siege Baby, In Quarters with the 25th Dragoons, Cavalry Life, Regimental Legends. By JOHN STRANGE WINTER. Large 12mo, cloth gilt, $1.00.

A most attractive volume comprising some of the very best productions of John Strange Winter.

"There is frankness, genuine feeling and sprightly movement in this author's creations."—St. James Gazette.

"John Strange Winter is always made welcome on our drawing-room tables, and by the fireside of our homes."—Life.

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

Nor Wife, Nor Maid.

By "THE DUCHESS," author of "Phyllis,"
 "Molly Bawn," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Nor Wife Nor Maid" is perhaps more ambitious in a novelistic way than some of the recent efforts of "The Duchess," but it is none the less entertaining. The plot is handled with great delicacy and skill, and the dashing, vivacious, perennially interesting style of the author contributes greatly to the success of the story.

SOME RECENT ISSUES:

The Man in Possession.

By "RITA," author of "A Vagabond Lover,"
 "The Doctor's Secret." 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Rita" has rarely given us a prettier or more agreeable story than "The Man in Possession." It is a thoroughly enjoyable novel.—Charleston News.

For the Sake of the Family.

By MAY CROMMELIN, author of "Goblin Gold,"
 "The Freaks of Lady Fortune," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"It is superfluous to do more than call attention to this great novel of the great German novelist, the greatest perhaps of all his works that have made him famous not only in the Fatherland, but in all lands. The marvel of this book is its cheapness, considering its size, and the neatness and substantialness of its binding. It opens also readily to the hand and lies open, making it easy to handle while reading."—Christian Weekly, New York.

Herman Melville's Works.

Edited with a Biographical and Critical Introduction

By ARTHUR STEDMAN.

THE UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY have pleasure in announcing that they have arranged with the family of the late HERMAN MELVILLE for the publication of that author's popular romances, which have interested and charmed the reading world of both hemispheres for over a generation. The works, which are under competent editorship, will be handsomely produced from new plates, with unique cover design. The following volumes are

NOW READY:

I.

TYPEE:

A Real Romance of the South Seas. By HER-MAN MELVILLE. With Biographical and Critical Introduction by ARTHUR STEDMAN, and portrait of the author. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Herman Melville was the first man who shared the life of a cannibal community in the South Seas, who had the winning literary art to describe it, and who returned alive to write his book. 'Typee' will be read when most of the Concord group are forgotten."—Dr.
TITUS MUNSON COAN, in New York Tribune.

II.

OMOO:

A Sequel to "Typee." By HERMAN MELVILLE.
12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"'Typee' and 'Omoo' are full of light and color, of sensations that seem to be reflections, and of the restlessness of thought that seems to imply activity of mind.
We drift with him through his Pacific splendors and dangers as if we had partaken of the lotus plant: everything about us is wonderful, is marvellous, but nothing is tangible, real, 'of the earth, earthy.'"—RICHARD HEN-RY STODDARD, in Mail and Express.

PUBLISH TO-DAY:

CATMUR'S CAVE.

By RICHARD DOWLING, author of "The Mystery of Killard," "The Weird Sisters," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"Catmur's Cave" contains a fascinating and mysterious plot, the principal characters being the showman Catmur, a lion-tamer, a magnetic lady, and a private secretary. There are several well-conceived dramatic situations, and the conclusion is a particularly pleasing one.

NEW BOOKS.

WEDDED TO SPORT.

By Mrs. EDWARD KENNARD, author of "The Girl in the Brown Habit," "Matron or Maid?" etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

The main thread of this thoroughly entertaining story runs along the disastrous effort of a high-souled woman to live with a morally weak and viciously unrefined man.

BERRIS.

By KATHERINE S. MACQUOID, author of "Elizabeth Morley," "Miss Eyon of Eyon Court," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

A quiet and peaceful story of pastoral life, the treatment of which is in the author's usual bright and interesting vein.

Love and Friendship. Compiled by ALICE L. WILLIAMS. Illustrated by Irene Jerome. Quarto, cloth, $1.50.

The patient labor of many years has been wrought out to these pages, and more than this, gleaming in a thousand fields and meadows, and digging into unnumbered mines, Mrs. Williams, with the rare discrimination so necessary for such a task, has brought together the finest of the wheat, the fairest of the flowers, the purest of the gems. There are many passages in these books that can nowhere else be found, passages that are priceless in value, as rich as they are rare. From Geoffrey Chaucer to our latest and sweetest singers, from Luther and Bacon down to our own Robert Collyer, these books present a perfect embarrassment of literary riches.
